U. S. RE-ENTERS BUTTER MART

To Buy 60,000,000 Pounds During May and June for Military Needs.

By The Associated Press

WASHINGTON, April 24—The government plans to re-enter the butter market about May 1 to buy 60,000,000 pounds to supply the armed services and military hospitals during the next 12 months.

To assure itself of this quantity, the government probably will require manufacturers to set aside a portion of their output during May and June.

Last summer it purchased 325,000,000 pounds under a set-aside order, but later turned 75,000,000 pounds back to civilian markets when supplies became very scarce.

Peak Period Set

Government buying for the year ahead will be concentrated in the May-June period when butter production normally reaches its peak for the year. By obtaining a year's needs in this period, the government thus eliminates itself as a competitor with civilians during low production periods.

Despite the government's plan to secure military needs during the flush production season, the outlook for civilian supplies of butter next fall and winter are not bright.

In the first place, total production is expected to fall below last year's level and below pre-war output.

In the second place, consumer demand is at record levels. Because of this, it is quite likely the great bulk, if not all, of the output of the heavy production season—May through July—will be consumed as rapidly as it is produced.

If this happens, none from the flush season's output would be reserved for consumption next fall and winter, when production is expected to be far short of demands.

Rationing Helped

During the war, rationing limited consumption during the flush production season, and some of the spring and summer output was forced into storage for sale later.

In normal times, the butter industry itself stores a part of the summer output for sale during the fall and winter season of low production. There is is an incentive to do this, because prices usually are lowest during the peak production season and highest during the fall and winter.

Under the government's price control program, there is no financial inducement to store for the future. Price ceilings are the same the year around.

Concert Membership Drive Off to Good Start, Early Reports Show.

Headquarters for the Marion Community Concert association campaign under way here this week, were opened yesterday at the H. Schaffner Co. store, and a report today was that "things are moving along nicely," with an indication that the campaign "promises to be all that the association has hoped for."

Open every day from 10 a. m. to 5:30 p. m., the headquarters is equipped with telephone service by dialing 3232. At work there are Mrs. A. G. Birch, who is acting as secretary for the campaign, Harold Welch, organization director from Community Concert service, division of Columbia Concerts, Inc., of New York City, and other workers who are members of the association executive board and volunteers. Mrs. William Thomas is treasurer.

The campaign which brought last year artists James Melton and Carol Glenn, and recently the Foxhole Ballet, was conducted in June. One week is the extent of the campaign, and no memberships may be secured for next season's concert series after 5:30 Saturday. Concert tickets are not available at the door on the night of a performance. Concerts are held at the Palace theater, and the goal this year is to reach capacity, with a membership of the Marion Community Concert association of 1,538.

NEVADA MAN DIES AS AUTO STRIKES POLE

Ross Kauble Killed; Driver Is Seriously Hurt.

Ross Kauble, 68, of Nevada was instantly killed when the car in which he was riding went out of control and struck a telephone pole at the side of the road four miles east of Upper Sandusky Tuesday at 4:55 p. m.

Burt Frost, 69, of Nevada, the driver and only other occupant of the car, was seriously injured. He was taken to a hospital in Bucyrus where his condition today was reported improved. Both were farmers.

The office of the sheriff of Wyandot county said the men were driving east in a car with a farm trailer hooked behind. It is believed probable the car went out of control due to the swing of the trailer. The telephone pole was hit with such force that it was broken off.

Kauble's body was taken to the Bender Funeral Home in Nevada.

He was born near Nevada Aug. 9, 1877. He lived on a farm one mile west of Nevada all his life. He was unmarried. Surviving at th home near Nevada are two sisters, Miss Nellie Kauble and Miss Daisy Kauble. A brother, Ray, is in Florida. He was a son of Adam and Amanda Kauble, formerly Amanda Natzger. He was a member of the Methodist church at Nevada. Funeral will be held at 4 p. m. Friday, Rev. Glenn Bennthum of the Methodist church of Nevada will conduct funeral service. Burial will be in the Nevada cemetery. Friends may call at the Kauble home from Thursday at 1 p. m. until Friday at 2 p. m.

RAPS INDUSTRY FOR OPA FIGHT

Senator Scores N. A. M. Outlay of $395,850 To Crush Price Agency.

By The Associated Press

WASHINGTON, April 24—Senator Mitchell (D-Wash) took the National Association of Manufacturers to task today for spending $395,650 in its anti-OPA campaign. He called such spending "out of line."

Mitchell was one of a group of Democratic senators who tangled with Robert R. Wason, president of the NAM, when Wason disclosed what the association's anti-OPA drive had cost.

"The average consumer who wants prices held down couldn't hope to duplicate that amount," Mitchell said to a reporter.

Protests Pour In

Wason testified at hearings yesterday on legislation to extend OPA a year beyond June 30. In the course of the hearing, Chairman Wagner (D-NY) mentioned he had received 1,750 telegrams for continuance of OPA without restrictive amendments such as the house tacked on. Wagner said there were 26 telegrams against continuance.

"Propaganda machine," exploded Wason. Later the NAM president quoted Rep. Vursell (R-Ill) as having said the OPA has thousands of employes indulging in propaganda at an annual cost of $13,000,000.

This assertion was challenged by Denas L. Potter of OPA, who said the price control agency spends nothing on propaganda, and that the $13,000,000 figure included such things as the cost of printing ration books for every person in the country.

Wason pleaded in his testimony for an end to all price controls on manufactured goods. He said:

"We urge you to give the manufacturers of America a chance to turn out the goods with which to smother inflation."

Wason contended especially that OPA was retarding production.

Challenges Figures

This comment referred to new federal reserve board figures which Mitchell cited as showing that production in March was 169 per cent of the 1935-39 production index. Wason retorted that the 1935-39 period was one of depression.

Wason sounded this criticism of OPA:

"OPA drives goods off the shelf and into the black market.

"OPA discourages the efficient production of established manufacturers.

"OPA discourages investment by attacking profit.

"OPA by creating black markets is causing America to become a nation of law violators."

Wason contended that if all controls were lifted from manufactured goods, some prices would go up and some would go down. But he said the readjustment would be comparatively insignificant.

ARMY ORDERS CRACKDOWN ON TROOPS IN ETO

McNarney Says Discipline Has Deteriorated, Sees Discredit to U. S. Prestige.

By The Associated Press

FRANKFURT, GERMANY, April 24—Gen. Joseph T. McCarney today ordered a disciplinary crackdown on all American troops in Europe because "discipline in certain localities and commands in this theater has deteriorated to the point of discrediting the fine performance of our troops in general."

In orders issued to unit commanders, the theater commander declared "all commanders and their subordinates must now devote themselves to the reestablishment of discipline."

Gen. McNarney's written order said:

"Due to rapid demobilization and frequent changes of station of units and assignments of enlisted men and officers, firm ties of unit pride have been weakened. The traditional constant concern of officers for the welfare of their men and consequent mutual loyalties have been difficult to maintain during this transition period. Teamwork often has been forgotten."

Cites Deterioration

"Consequently discipline in certain localities and commands in this theater has deteriorated to a point of discrediting the fine performance of our troops in general.

"Indications of this state can be found in:

"A. Participation in black market activities and in indulgence in drunkenness.

"B. A high absent without leave rate and an excessive incidence of other disciplinary infractions.

C. High automobile accident rate.

"D. Excessive venereal disease rate.

"E. General lack of smartness in appearance and conscientious observance of military courtesy.

"F. Complaining attitude toward constituted military authority and those duties essential to maintain high standards of soldierly efficiency."

May Lose Face

"The low state of discipline within the command leads to a loss of respect for American authority by the enemy people and injuries to our reputation among our allies. But even more important is the loss of self respect to the individual Americans concerned. Officer replacements and newly enlisted and newly inducted soldiers are being received in large numbers and if low standards of discipline and performance of duty exist in any organization, they will extend to new arrivals.

"The theater now is approaching a condition of reasonable stability. * * * Excuses previously made that effective action was impossible because of the rapid turnover of officers and men are no longer valid. * * * Continued

DELAWARE CO. SPEED CUT

By The Associated Press

COLUMBUS, O., April 24—Zones with speed limits under the statutory 50 miles an hour are being established throughout Ohio in an effort to cut down the highway accident rate. Zones already set up, include U. S. 36-37 between Delaware and Sunbury in Delaware county. It has a 35-mile limit.

Ceremony Marks Official Start of Work on Olentangy River Dam Near Delaware

Lausche and Other Officials Speak on Program.

By AUSTIN E. SHOWMAN

Amid the sounds of bulldozers, tractors and graders at the site of the $5,000,000 Olentangy flood control and soil conservation dam four miles north of Delaware, Gov. Frank J. Lausche turned a shovel full of dirt yesterday afternoon and officially opened a flood control project which will extend from the dam site north into Marion county.

The three-mile-long dam will provide a 1,000-acre permanent pool during normal river level and at flood stage will back water into an estimated 8,000-acre area extending into Marion county. The dam will impound the waters of the Olentangy river to control flood flows in the Scioto and Ohio rivers. Bulldozers are now at work in the river canyon moving earth for the floor of the pool.

Official ceremonies opening the project took place at the dam site in the presence of approximately 2,500 persons.

Governor Looks Ahead

In his official dedication address, Gov. Lausche expressed the hope that the conservancy program would benefit future generations. He declared, "we want to give to those who follow us some of the things we cannot have ourselves."

"Dreams of the present-day American," he added, "are that his children and grandchildren may enjoy the things he could not enjoy."

To those families whose lands are being taken, the governor declared, "I know the grief that must be yours in taking away your lands, but I know you will be fully reimbursed for it." He suggested that local appraisers be used in determining the valuation of the farms to be condemned. He asked those who had to make sacrifices feel they were being made for the benefit of the county, the state, and the nation.

On conclusion of his address Gov. Lausche turned the first shovel-full of dirt. He then handed the nickel-plated shovel to Major P. J. Foley of Delaware, who turned the second shovel-full in commemoration of completion of the dam.

Opening Ceremonies

The program at the dam site began shortly after 2 p. m. with the Willis High school band playing the national anthem. Father Bennet Applegate of St. Mary's Catholic church in Delaware gave the invocation. Acting as master of ceremonies was Allen I. Pretzman, chairman of the program committee, and secretary of the Scioto-Sandusky Conservancy district, who introduced the speakers.

Congressman J. Harry McGregor of the 17th Congressional district appeared first on the program. The West Lafayette congressman pointed out that the Delaware program would need the support of the local citizens, farmers, army engineers. He also urged that local appraisers be used in determining the valuation of condemned land.

Col. P. N. Strong, district engineer of the Cincinnati army engineer's office, said the Delaware program was one of 57 large reservoirs being planned. He said the dam would give Delaware complete flood protection and would afford major protection for Columbus. It would take the top

TAFT ASSAILS BRITISH LOAN

Charges America Is Buying "50 Years of Friction"; Proposes Gift.

By The Associated Press

WASHINGTON, April 24—Senator Taft (R-Ohio) said today the United States was buying "50 years of friction" with Great Britain by offering a $3,750,000,000 loan. He suggested instead a $1,250,000,000 gift.

Opposing passage of loan authorization legislation, Taft told his colleagues in a prepared address that every time the British pay the $141,000,000 annual interest on the loan "they will groan heavily and the press will recall what they consider harsh treatment to an ally in the war."

"It is likely that in many cases the interest will be forgiven," the Ohio senator said, "and then everyone in the United States who doesn't like the British will rise up and denounce them for failing to pay interest and imposing additional charges on the American people.

"I feel deeply that this loan is an instrument of ill will and not of good will."

"This British loan is only part of a policy of lending about $20,000,000,000 during the next three or four years," he continued. "That policy can only result in inflation, boom, and depression. We put $8,000,000,000 into Bretton Woods to stabilize the world."

Taft said the net value of British assets in this country is more than $3,000,000,000, with about $8,000,000,000 in other British property scattered throughout the world.

"I cannot see that Great Britain faces any tremendous crisis to justify the extraordinary treatment we are asked to give her," he said.

Taft gained the floor in advance of Senator Bilbo (D-Miss) who had asked for "several hours" of speaking time.

President Resumes Cruise on Yacht

By The Associated Press

CAPE CHARLES, Va., April 24—President Truman resumed his vacation aboard the presidential yacht Williamsburg today after a few days with the Atlantic fleet in Hampton Roads.

President Truman will interrupt his vacation cruise long enough to attend funeral services in Washington for Associate Justice Harlan F. Stone.

Mr. Truman's aides said he would leave from this point by train shortly after noon today to arrive in Washington with members of his personal staff. After the funeral he will return to Quantico, Va., and board the yacht again for a cruise continuing through Sunday.

The Williamsburg rode out the night in an anchorage off Cape Charles at the entrance to Chesapeake bay and indications were that she would continue up the bay today.

INQUIRY GAINS NEW BACKING; REDS LOSE CASE

Council Takes 1-Day Recess After Russia Is Rebuffed in Iran Controversy.

By The Associated Press

NEW YORK, April 24—Edward R. Stettinius Jr., U. S. delegate to the United Nations security council, was reported reliably today to have indicated he would support the Australian proposal for a thorough investigation of Franco Spain.

Sources close to Stettinius said he might ask Australian Delegate W. R. Hodgson to clarify the scope of the inquiry but that he was prepared to go along with the growing list of delegates who have lined up behind the proposal.

This word came as the council took a one-day recess after yesterday's stormy session in which Soviet Russia lost her battle to have the council drop the Iranian case and announced she would boycott any further discussion of the case.

British Send Orders

Sir Alexander Cadogan, British delegate, also was reported to have received instructions to back the Australian proposal. Mexico and Poland previously had indicated they would support the measure, and it was believed Russia and France were ready to go along.

The other delegates were expected to follow the lead of the big powers, which for once seemed in agreement.

It thus appeared the Spanish question was finally headed toward a harmonious solution when the council meets at 2 p. m. tomorrow.

Approval of the proposal would avert a showdown on Poland's move for a world-wide diplomatic break with the Franco regime for at least four weeks—the time allotted for the inquiry by a five-man committee.

Soviet Delegate Andrei A. Gromyko fought to the last to push through his resolution to strike the Iranian case from the council's agenda, but in the end he recognized his defeat by associating himself yesterday with a milder resolution offered by French delegate Henri Bonnet.

The French Plan

The French proposal provided that the case be dropped from the agenda but it had an additional provision that the secretary-general report to the general assembly on any new developments on the Iranian question.

Bonnet's resolution, however, was defeated when it received only three of the council's 11 votes. It was supported only by Russia and Poland. All the other delegates during the debate had expressed a desire to keep the case on the agenda until May 6, the date on which Russia has promised to have all her troops out of Iran.

It was then, after the case was disposed of, as far as the current proposals were concerned, that the Soviet delegate threatened to walk out on future Iran discussions.

Gromyko declared he believed "the decision of the security council to retain the Iranian case on its agenda is contrary to the charter of the United Nations," and added:

"The Soviet delegation is therefore not able to participate in the discussion of the Iranian question in the security council."

Delegates and the observers, remembering his walkout last month, watched him gather up his papers from the council table. For a moment it appeared he would leave, but he remained silently in his seat during the final minutes of the session.

Puzzled At Move

Since the vote on the French resolution concluded the action on the council's current agenda, some delegates were puzzled over Gromyko's move. On the surface it appeared he was announcing a boycott of deliberations which already were concluded.

Other delegates expressed the view he had made his move for the record. It also was pointed out he might be looking ahead to May 6 when the council is scheduled to hear both Russia and Iran for reports on the outcome of their agreement regarding troop withdrawals.

Start of Work on Delaware Dam Project Is Fulfillment of Long-Planned Program

By W. T. BUCHANAN

With work on the Olentangy river dam north of Delaware officially started proponents of water conservation programs in Ohio are looking forward hopefully to the completion of the long-planned project.

For many years the dam has been on the Army Engineers' list of proposed projects to control rampaging Ohio rivers in flood time and to provide water supplies for large centers of population.

Held up during the war years, the program now is officially under way and congress has appropriated $2,500,000 of the approximately $5,000,000 the dam will cost.

Today giant earth-moving machines, cranes and shovels are starting the gigantic task of moving the one million cubic yards of dirt necessary to construct the dam. In addition to this the spillway and other construction will require 75,000 cubic yards of concrete.

CALL GIVES CLUE TO BODY OF MUSSOLINI

By The Associated Press

ROME, April 24—A mysterious telephone caller told the Milan newspaper Corriere Lombardo today the body of Benito Mussolini, stolen from a grave in potter's field yesterday, had been spirited south across the river Po.

The anonymous caller said:

"This night at 2 o'clock Mussolini's body has passed the Po river at Casoro."

Withholds Details

Casoro is near Piacenza. The caller said the body of the assassinated Fascist dictator was taken across the river in a boat, but declined to say how many were aboard.

The newspaper said the man was believed to be the same as the one who called it yesterday and declared "a body has been stolen from Maggiore cemetery in Milan." The newspaper refused to believe the story until a communique two hours later told of the stealing of the remains of Mussolini.

Police Block Roads

Minister of the Interior Giuseppe Romita ordered police to block all highways from Milan today in an effort to frustrate any attempt to bring Benito Mussolini's exhumed body to Rome.

Romita declared that "one man alone" knew the exact location of the unmarked grave in a Milan potter's field from which the former Duce's remains were stolen yesterday. He declined, however, to identify the man.

Milan newspapers reported police had found near the open grave a note which was signed by the "Democratic Fascist party" and which said:

"Duce, finally you are with us. We repeatedly requested of the authorities that you be given a worthier tomb, but this always was denied us. Now you will have a grave worthy of your person and of all you accomplished, covered with roses and flowers."

The newspaper Il Momento said that for some time pamphlets had been circulating in Milan asserting that "regardless of opinions on Mussolini, he belongs to history and therefore has a right to burial. Napoleon, too, led France to disaster, but nobody questions the Invalides—his tomb."

Milan police, reconstructing the theft of Mussolini's body said the marauders had climbed two small fences to gain entrance to the rear of the cemetery. After uncovering the body they apparently dumped it into a sack and carried it to an automobile, which was believed to have headed toward Gallarate, a small town 10 miles distant.

The trail reportedly was lost there.

INTRUDER STRIKES WOMAN, THEN FLEES

Pearl St. Resident Awakened by Prowler in Bedroom.

Mrs. Robert Sweeney of 683 Pearl street told police early Monday morning that a man entered her bedroom about 2 a. m. and struck her several times in the face. She said she was awakened in bed when the man shook her and when she screamed he struck her and fled.

Her husband was in Toledo, where he is employed.

Her mother-in-law, Mrs. Zelda Sweney, said she heard the man run downstairs. He went out through French windows in the kitchen.

There was no evidence of forcible entry to the house and police believed the man had secreted himself in the house during the evening. Mrs. Zelda Sweney said she found a basement door ajar at 9:30 p. m. Neither woman could give a description of the man.

2,500 CONVICTS END "BATTLE" IN ITALY

By The Associated Press

MILAN, April 23 — Twenty-five hundred rioting prisoners in San Vittore prison surrendered this afternoon, after holding out for four days.

However, a small group of gangsters, headed by Ezzio Barbieri, leader of the revolt, still held out and boasted they would continue to fight to the end.

More than 30 guards held as hostages by the prisoners were freed without injury, although the death toll among the prisoners themselves rose to eight today.

The surrender came after a tower of the fortress-like prison was half destroyed by shellfire and after military authorities served the rioting prisoners with an ultimatum to deliver the 30 guards or prepare for an all-out assault from tanks and artillery.

The rioters held out until after expiration of the ultimatum before surrendering.

The first 1,100 men to yield crawled up through holes in the prison wall blasted by a tank which led the assault only a few minutes after the ultimatum to surrender had expired. Many prisoners were slightly wounded.

The rioters came through the broken walls two by two with their hands up. Many seemed scared. Hundreds of civil police guarded them enroute to another jail.

Ten of the prisoners were under death sentences imposed by a high court for crimes committed during the Fascist regime.

Long-Planned Program Started

and the Olentangy channel and adjacent lowlands. Another branch west of Waldo would extend northward about two miles north of the town.

The million-cubic-yard earthen dam will be 18,500 feet or nearly 3½ miles in length. It will cross the river channel east and slightly north of the overhead railroad crossing on route 23 four miles north of Delaware. The spillway will be located in the present channel.

East 2 Miles

On the west side of the channel the dam, or dike, will extend westward toward route 23, then turn northward for a distance of 1¼ miles north of the overhead bridge. The dike then will turn westward, crossing route 23 a half mile north of Troy Chapel. The dike will extend west of route 23 for a distance of 1,700 feet. It will be necessary to raise route 23 about 10 feet to cross the dike.

On the east side of the river the dike will extend east and a little to the north a distance of two miles to the Horseshoe road, north and south highway in Delaware county.

To date the government has acquired title to only 1,200 acres through which the dike will run. This land is in 21 tracts and 12 families are affected. They are to move their homes between May 15 and Sept. 1.

Engineers say how much additional land will be taken over by the government has not been determined. Some land in addition to that covered by the permanent pool may be bought outright while flood easements may be taken on other properties in the area covered at flood stage.

The contract calls for completion of the dam by the private contractors by Sept. 1, 1947, allowing 510 days for construction work.

Engineers in Delaware said that at no time before the government actually takes over the completed project will any water be backed up in the channel. The concrete spillway will contain five sluice gates 6½ feet square which will carry away the normal river flow and no water will be backed up until these gates are closed. Later the gates will be opened or closed to regulate the height of the permanent pool. In times of threatened flood the gates will be closed to stop the flow as a protection for points downstream.

Depth of the water at the spillway will be 30 feet if the pool is maintained at 910 feet or 42 feet if it is held at 922 feet. The present river channel is 880 feet above sea level.

How long it would take to fill the dam to the spillway level would depend on rainfall over a period of time, engineers point out. However 6½ inches of runoff water over the entire 381 square miles in the drainage area would be required to fill the reservoir to the 947 foot level, engineers say.

Three-Fold Benefits

Proponents of the dam and similar projects see a three-fold benefit from the construction. They point first to flood control, then to water conservation and maintenance of a water supply for large centers of population.

The water supply will benefit principally Delaware and Columbus. For many years Delaware has been casting about for means of improving its supply, which now is taken from the river at the pumping station above the city. The city has a difficult time in periods of dry weather when the river flow falls to a low point.

In periods of dry weather water can be released from the reservoir to supply both Delaware and Columbus. The capital city still remembers the time less than two years ago when many manufacturing plants, including war factories, were forced to go on restricted operations because of failure of the O'Shaughnessy reservoir supply.

The conservation feature will not only tend to raise the water table in the affected areas but will also provide recreational facilities.

To residents of Delaware, however, flood control is one of the principal benefits of the dam. Many of the older citizens recall vividly the 1913 flood when hundreds of houses were washed away and 21 persons lost their lives.

1913 Recalled by Mayor

While waiting for the start of yesterday's parade Mayor P. J. Foley recalled to a group of listeners in his office how he nearly lost his life in the 1913 disaster. He was temporarily swept away in the swift current while aiding in the rescue of a neighbor. Although the neighbor was saved his wife and three children were carried to their deaths in the flood waters.

Representatives of the army engineers' office now with headquarters in Delaware include Ralph D. Salisbury, resident engineer; Mr. Johnson, assistant resident engineer; and Nelson Fasnaught, engineer in charge. General supervision of the project is in the hands of Col. P. N. Strong of the Cincinnati division of the U. S. Army Engineers.

Russia Cuts Down Land Use Demands Against Austria

By The Associated Press

WASHINGTON, April 24 — United States diplomatic officials reported today Russia had trimmed its land use demands upon Austria to a small fraction of the 150,000 acres originally sought.

The action came as the aftermath of an UNRRA decision at Atlantic City late last month to ban relief to any country whose armies are found to be "living off the land" of countries they occupy at the expense of the local population.

The exact extent of Russia's reduced request remains uncertain. One state department official, in close touch with the situation, said privately the Soviet Union now was limiting its request to such untillable lands as those previously used as German drill fields.

The original Russian demand had raised grave concern in diplomatic quarters here on the double grounds that:

(1) It would cut deeply into the potential of Austria's agricultural production and;

(2) Indicate clearly Soviet intention to maintain a large force there for months.

This country, now helping to feed the Austrian people as the major contributor to UNRRA, has advocated reduction of occupatoin forces in that country to hasten restoration of economic stability.

Meanwhile, the United Nations Relief and Rehabilitation Administration planned tentatively to reassemble delegates from its 46 member nations for a brief meeting here soon to hear a new report on potential food-relief supplies.

It also was learned Russia had been approached, thus far informally, to learn whether she would accept an official invitation to join the combined food board. The United States, Britain and Canada now sit on this board, which controls allocation of available supplies from the three countries.

Thus far there has been no official response. Tied to the invitation will be a condition that Russia become a contributor to the general food pool and that she furnish the board with full information on her present or anticipated surpluses.

K. of C. Wins Praise On Membership Campaign

A congratulatory letter from the supreme office in recognition of Marion Council No. 671, Knights of Columbus, having made the honor roll, was read at a meeting of the members Tuesday night. The council, with a membership of more than 300, again this year topped its quota for enrollment of new members.

Three applications were balloted on and reports were given by Robert Murphy, chairman for the St. Mary Alumni dance sponsored by the council, and Floyd Cornely, financial secretary.

It was announced that the local council team will bowl a team from Kenton at the Marion Recreation center Sunday afternoon. Announcement also was made that due to the opening of the baseball season here next Tuesday a meeting of the council set for that time will be postponed. A meeting May 7 will mark the observance of Past Grand Knights night and William Lawler will be in charge.

crest from major floods in the area and greatly neutralize medium floods, according to Col. Strong.

E. F. Bearce, president of the Scioto - Sandusky Conservancy district, told how the Delaware project was in line with the district's reservoir system of flood control, and said 10 such reservoirs were being proposed to control waters on the Scioto and Sandusky rivers and their tributaries.

Introduces Governor

Before introducing Gov. Lausche, Mayor Foley recalled the 1913 floods in Delaware which took 21 lives and left many others homeless.

Although showers occurred earlier in the day, weather was fair during the program. Numerous dignitaries and officials from Delaware and Columbus were present. Ceremonies closed when Rev. Marion Harrison of the Delaware Evangelical and Reformed church delivered the benediction.

Preceding the program at the dam site, a parade formed at 1:30 at the Delaware city hall and was led by the Willis High school band northward to Lincoln avenue. Gov. Lausche and other dignitaries followed in automobiles.

How much land would be affected by the dam, especially during flood stage, remained a matter of speculation for most Delaware county authorities. It is believed the dam will affect 8,000 acres extending into Marion county, J. A. Samson, Delaware county auditor, reports he expects the project make take between 9,000 and 10,000 acres off the tax duplicate. While the permanent pool itself which would be formed by the dam would include from about 900 to 1,760 acres, additional land affected during flood stage would make the land inaccessible for farming. Tax valuation on the land is estimated at $450,000 by the Delaware county auditor, which would amount to a reduction of $5,000 in real estate taxes annually. Number of acres now condemned and taken over by the federal court is 1,221 acres.

Roads Affected

Auditor Samson said several Delaware county roads probably would have to be abandoned. They include the Panhandle road, part of the Leonardsburg road, the Shaffner-Hagar road and possibly the Ashley-Radnor road.

Only school to be affected seriously is believed to be the Marlboro school, a three-room grade school at Norton although part of the Delaware school district also is in the area.

Plans already are being made for moving the Marlboro cemetery, Mr. Samson said. The cemetery contains nearly 3,000 graves, it is estimated, and some of the graves are over 100 years old.

Authorities at the office of Delaware county agricultural agent P. M. Cuningham report that while some of the farmers in the area, those whose farms already have been taken over, have not moved away, a majority of the others are carrying out their usual spring planting programs. The federal court order issued by Federal Judge Mell G. Underwood, has given the government possession of 22 tracts required to start initial construction of the project. Remaining tracts are not expected to be acquired until early in 1947.

GALION FIRM PAYS $16,453 IN OPA CASE

Court Suit Is Dismissed But Judge Takes Action.

By The Associated Press

CLEVELAND, April 24—The Cleveland Office of Price Administration said today the Stratsbury Manufacturing Co. of Galion, O., had paid $16,453.45 in settlement of ceiling price violations—the largest settlement in the clothing industry yet recorded in the five-state Cleveland district.

The government's action against the company was dismissed in federal court following payment of damages, and Federal Judge Robert N. Wilkin enjoined the Galion concern from further sales in excess of established maximum prices.

The OPA suit charged the company, maker of women's coats, with failure to meet the maximum average price and exceeding the legal price ceiling in the manufacture of clothing during the period August, 1944, to July 1945. OPA said the violations involved the diversion of materials obtained for men's garments to women's coats without OPA regulations or authority.

RAILROAD UNIONS CONSIDER STRIKE

By The Associated Press

CLEVELAND, April 24—General chairmen of two large railroad brotherhoods—the trainmen and locomotive engineers—met today to decide whether to accept or reject a fact-finding board's recommendations in the organization's dispute with carriers over wages and working rule changes.

Rejection would leave the brotherhoods two courses—a strike which would paralyze the nation's rail system, or further negotiations with carriers.

As the general chairmen, including about 100 from trainmen's units and 75 from locomotive engineers, met to hear reports of wage committees, brotherhood officials said there would be no announcement from the closed conference until a decision was reached. Both President A. F. Whitney of the trainmen and Alvanley Johnston, Grand Chief Engineer of the locomotive engineers, declined comment in advance of the conference.

Railroad labor observers recalled earlier statements by the two brotherhoods' leaders indicating dissatisfaction with the board's recommendations for a 16-cent hourly wage increase and certain rules changes. The brotherhoods sought a $2.50 per day raise and changes in 45 working rules.

Major demands by the brotherhoods for rules changes were not recommended by the board. Following its report to the President on April 18, Johnston commented: "That's not as much as we asked."

Observers pointed out the board had recommended several rule-changes proposed by carriers. Whitney previously said recommendation of any carrier-proposed changes would be a "signal for a strike."

In event the brotherhoods reject the board recommendations and order a strike, the government could seize and operate the railroads to prevent suspension of service.

The two brotherhoods, with combined membership of 293,000, represent about 15 per cent of all railroad employes in the country.

Specific actions taken to solve the disciplinary problem are expected to be disclosed by Gen. McNarney in a news conference tomorrow.

Cause of Erie Yard Collision Undecided

No conclusion has been reached concerning the cause of a collision of two Erie railroad locomotives in the railroad yards here Monday, Erie railroad officials said today.

Two representatives of the interstate commerce commission were here Tuesday to investigate the accident in conjunction with railroad officials, it was said.

The accident occurred at a switch 500 yards west of the Kenton avenue crossing Monday at 12:47 p. m. when a freight locomotive collided with an eastbound passenger train carrying German prisoners of war. A Huntington, Ind., man, fireman on the freight locomotive, was killed when the locomotive was derailed and overturned. Several others were slightly injured in the accident.

3 DIE AS TRANSPORT CRASHES INTO HOUSE

By The Associated Press

BURBANK, Calif., April 24—A Western Air Lines transport on a test flight without passengers, crashed with an engine afire into a house today, killing its three crewmen.

Occupants of the house, Matthew Brychter, his wife, Mildred, and their three children, Bonnie, 5, Janet, 3, and Carol, 18 months, escaped injury. The residence, on Buby Lenkershim boulevard, was severely damaged by flames.

The crash occurred four miles from Lockheed air terminal, transcontinental terminal for major airlines serving the Los Angeles metropolitan area.

Western Air listed the plane's occupants as:

Wayne Fiederoff, pilot, Burbank.

Marvin Schwartzbach, co-pilot, Roscoe, Calif.

Leon Turgeon, mechanic, Hollywood.

Lockheed's controller said the plane crashed in a moderate fog after a flight of nearly two hours, during which it had been unreported for the last 45 minutes, the last followed an engine change in the transport.

SPEEDY OHIO MURDER TRIAL NEARS CLOSE

By The Associated Press

XENIA, O., April 24—The joint trial of two Cincinnatians charged with first degree murder in the shooting of Deputy Sheriff Earl C. Confer was expected to end today in its second day.

The prosecution, in yesterday's opening statement, said the state would attempt to prove the pair—Ernest Evans, 21, and Clarence Tucker, 20—had agreed to shoot it out before being captured.

To support its claims the prosecution produced three witnesses: Millard Schath and Adolph Metzger, Cincinnati police detectives, and O. H. Cornwell, superintendent of the London state identification bureau.

They told the three-judge court that Tucker admitted making the shooting pact with Evans prior to the early morning killing Jan. 29 on the outskirts of Xenia.

Cornwell said Tucker also admitted he and Evans, driving the stolen car toward Xenia, engaged in target practice along the road that day, blasting at roadside signs and buildings.

Deputy Sheriff Joseph E. Anderson, himself wounded in the shooting, testified that Tucker had taken no part in the gun battle and had offered no resistance when arrested.

He gave this version of the shooting:

Anderson and Confer, after running the pair down, were searching the car for weapons. Evans reached into the car and came up shooting with a curse on his lips.

He lunged toward Anderson, deflecting a pistol bullet into his (Evans') own hip. As Evans lay wounded on the street after killing Confer, he implored Tucker to retrieve the gun three feet away and shoot Anderson.

ONE MAY BE FIRST DEMOCRATIC CHIEF JUSTICE IN 25 YEARS. Observers in Washington are speculating on the possibility that Chief Justice Harlan Fiske Stone's successor on the supreme court bench will be the first Democratic chief justice in a quarter century—Stone, who died suddenly of a cerebral hemorrhage at his home in the capital city, having been the third successive Republican to occupy the nation's highest judicial office. The widespread speculation over President Truman's choice of a successor centers on the names of Associate Justice Hugo L. Black, right, of Alabama; Robert H. Jackson, center, of New York, and Stanley Reed of Kentucky. Black is now the ranking member of the court, while Jackson, who has been the chief U. S. prosecutor at the Nazi war trials in Nuernberg, Germany, is the man suggested by Truman in the past when mention was made of Stone's probable retirement. Most Washington folk wise in the way of appointments insist any group of three men considered from the eight associate justices must include Stanley F. Reed, who ranks second only to Black in tenure of service.

CLINE CONVICTED ON 9 FORGERY CHARGES

By The Associated Press

SAN FRANCISCO, April 24—White - haired Alfred Leonard Cline, whose cross-country trail was marked by deaths and cremations of elderly women, stands convicted today on nine charges of forgery.

The 56-year-old ex-convict and former choir leader, who told the judge in private conferences there was no such thing as a perfect crime, was convicted by a jury of five men and seven women yesterday for forging papers involving the estates of two of the women who died in his company.

Both were wives of the mysterious, Gospel-quoting Cline, who is charged in Dallas, Tex., with murder and has been under investigation in the deaths of at least four women. The forgeries were on papers involving the $323,000 estate of the former Mrs. Eva Delora Krebs Cline, wealthy Chicago widow, and the former Mrs. Elizabeth Hunt Lewis of Oakland.

Judge Herbert C. Kaufman set the sentencing for Saturday. The maximum penalty is 126 years in prison—14 years on each count.

WOMAN CAB DRIVER ABDUCTED BY PAIR

By The Associated Press

PADUCAH, Ky., April 24—Search for a woman taxicab driver by police in Kentucky and Illinois after she was reportedly abducted and attacked by two men who held her prisoner as they drove hundreds of miles since yesterday afternoon ended today when she appeared at the Paducah police station.

Captain Tilman Pate said that Mrs. Helen Vanover, 24, an Owensboro, Ky., taxicab driver came to the station about 3 a. m. today and said she fled from the two men after their stolen car was wrecked.

The two men, Pate said Mrs. Vanover related, fled from the wrecked machine. He said she told him the men had attacked her during the more than 12 hours she was held a prisoner.

In Owensboro, Police Capt. Jack Long said that the two men had forced Mrs. Vanover to drive them to Poole, Ky., about 60 miles south, at about 1:30 p. m. yesterday.

Long said that the two men both reported by Mrs. Vanover to be carrying guns, drove to Madisonville, Ky., and then headed for Shawneetown, Ill., about 100 miles west. But the cab stalled on a dirt road about four miles from the Illinois town last night and one of the men went to a nearby farm for help.

Long said that Sheriff W. C. Moye of Gallatin County, Ill., learned that after the farmer and his son came to help, the two men bound them, set fire to the taxicab and drove away in the farmer's car.

OSMENA CLAIMS LEAD IN PHILIPPINE VOTING

By The Associated Press

MANILA, April 24—President Sergio Osmena claimed today to have forged into the lead for President of the Philippines on unofficial returns from Pampanga province, where two of his staunchest supporters were killed and a third wounded by three masked men.

Senate President Manual Roxas rolled up a 34,000 lead in Manila on the basis of unofficial returns from 541 of the city's 571 precincts, but Osmena headquarters claimed the President led in Pampanga province alone by 67,000.

More than 4,000 precincts voted yesterday throughout the islands.

It was at Bacolor in Pampanga that three masked men shot and killed Edilberto Joven, 52, president of the Pampanga Democratic Alliance, and Ricardo Joven, 20, his son. Edilberto's brother, Francisco Joven, 55, was wounded. The Alliance strongly supported Osmena.

Roxas, 54, long-time political figure in the commonwealth government, remained in hiding. His secretary said reports had spread that an attempt would be made to kidnap him.

Osmena, 68, and a lifetime political leader in the islands, succeeded the late Manuel L. Quezon as President. Previously topping Quezon on the Philippines political scene, Osmena stepped down a notch in the mid-1930's when voters favored Quezon's independence ideas over Osmena's.

The winner in their race will be President of the Republic of the Philippines, scheduled to be established on July 4 when independence from the United States is achieved.

Publisher Sees Role for Press

President of National Association Says Papers Must Support Postwar Programs.

By The Associated Press

NEW YORK, April 24—W. G. Chandler, president of the American Newspaper Publishers association, in a speech opening the general sessions of the ANPA's 60th annual convention, reviewed the war-time role of America's publishers and declared they would be called upon again "to inform and inspire the public for mutual good."

"President Truman has called for conservation of foods for the underfed victims of global war," he said in a prepared address.

"Next month we will be asked to support the recommendations of the President's highway safety conference."

Outline Purposes

Chandler outlined the purpose of the convention, which opened yesterday as follows:

"Our function is not to decide what newspapers will print, but rather to seek ways and means for assuring publishers the facilities for printing that which needs to be read."

He continued:

"Some publishers present have observed the conduct of publication in other lands. They have seen the publication of news and opinion restricted or denied through control of vital materials. Only in Canada and the U. S. A. under war conditions have publishers been supplied with an amount of newsprint sufficient to safeguard the public interest.

"Wherever a government controls the raw materials of expression, that is, the paper on which thoughts are recorded, there can be no sure means of free expression. It is the good fortune of those of us in North America that we have these materials."

The ANPA's press communications committee reported that the federal communications commission's attitude against newspaper ownership of radio stations "is one that should have the watchful attention of publishers."

Several Reports

The committee advised publishers that although a projected investigation of newspaper ownership of radio stations had been called off by the FCC several years ago, "it is evident that the thinking of the present commission is along lines that brought about" the issuance of the original order.

The traffic committee took note of the possibility of a general hike in freight rates and advised that "any increase in freight rates on newsprint will eventually be reflected in the sales price."

BRIGHT SPOT SEEN FOR BIG 4 PARLEY

By The Associated Press

PARIS, April 24 — A unanimous fact-finding report by a four-power commission which visited the disputed Italian-Yugoslav border area was forecast authoritatively today as one bright spot in the somewhat gloomy picture shaping up for the Big Four foreign ministers' conference which convenes here tomorrow.

One member of the Big Four commission — representing Britain, France, Russia and the United States — predicted that despite disagreements on where the boundary should be, Russians and westerners alike would be able to agree on economic and ethnic facts involved.

The deputy foreign ministers, charged with preliminary work on the peace treaties, were scheduled to meet today to fix the exact hour for the first session of their chiefs tomorrow, tentatively scheduled for 3 p. m. (9 a. m. EST).

Scheduled to participate in the face-to-face conferences called in an effort to iron out numerous international problems were Foreign Secretary Ernest Bevin of Britain, Former Minister Georges Bidault of France, Foreign Minister Vyacheslaw M. Molotov of Russia and Secretary of State James F. Byrnes of the United States.

Byrnes, accompanied by Senator Connally (D-Texas) and Vandenberg (R-Mich) arrived at Orly airport shortly after noon today in President Truman's plane, "The Sacred Cow."

The Yugoslav-Italian border dispute was one of four major points on which the Russians disagreed with the Americans and British in drafting the Italian peace treaty. Others were the future of Italian colonies in Africa, reparations and the future of the Dodecanese islands.

Rotarians Hear Railway Official

Speaking before the Rotary club in its weekly luncheon meeting Tuesday at Hotel Harding, D. E. Mumford, assistant general safety agent for the New York Central railroad, stressed the need for greater safety on the highways and particularly at grade crossings.

He said that the railroads have made great progress in reducing deaths and injuries through a well-planned program emphasizing education and rule enforcement plus cooperation between employer and employe. He stated that the railroads are vitally concerned in the prevention of accidents at grade crossings, but emphasized the fact that to succeed in this undertaking will require clos co-operation between railroads and the public.

Mr. Mumford in referring to crossing accidents said, "Upon all railroads of the United States these accidents result in an average yearly toll of 1,875 deaths and 4,700 injuries.

Mr. Mumford stated that unlike employe accidents, which are largely within the control of the railroads, crossing accidents are in a large measure beyond the control of the railroads. Therefore, there is a joint responsibility as between the railroads and the public.

Earl N. Hale was in charge of the April birthday party. He gave a brief background of the men whose birthdays are in April. They are Rev. H. L. Olewiler, Ben T. Wiant, Dr. D. W. Brickley Jr., Homer Huffman, C. W. Smoot, Dr. E. L. Brady, James E. Frew, Ralph T. Lewis, Charles Sherer, H. Hale Clark, and Don Howard.

KIN OF MARIONITE VICTIM OF ATTACK

Unknown Assailant Beats Chicago Woman with Hammer.

Mrs. Harley Burggraf of 139 Charles street received word Tuesday that her daughter-in-law, Mrs. Dorothy Burggraf, 18, of Chicago, is in St. Anthony's hospital in Chicago suffering from injuries suffered when she was severely beaten Friday night by a man who pounded her on the head with a hammer. It occurred in front of the house next door to where the young woman's mother lives.

A department store cashier, Mrs. Burggraf was on her way to her mother's home. She said the man followed her for about two blocks before he overtook her and began beating her. Her husband, Nelly Everal Burggraf, who is a machinist, was in her mother's house, heard his wife scream and ran to her aid. However, by that time her assailant had fled. She said she knew of no reason for the attack. Her scalp was cut in several places.

Mr. Burggraf was recently discharged from the Navy. The couple were married March 2, this year, in Chicago.

WIFE WINS DIVORCE FROM DAD OF QUADS

By The Associated Press

PITTSBURGH, April 24—Mrs. William Thompson, 27-year-old beauty operator, won a swift divorce today from the former AAF sergeant who fathered quadruplets by an English WAAF.

Judge Thomas H. Marshall issued the decree a short time after hearing Mrs. Thompson's story at a brief hearing.

Thompson, appearing excited and happy, later told newsmen he hoped to bring the English girl, Norah Carpenter, and their three surviving children to America as quickly as possible, perhaps by airliner.

"I hope to marry her in Pittsburgh, but I am not sure where or when," he said. "I already have a four-room apartment promised me when I can get them here."

Thompson has sent the U. S. embassy in London a guarantee that he will support the family. He still has to send Miss Carpenter a copy of the divorce decree and a certificate of intention to marry her. She has to present these papers to the embassy in London for approval of her trip here.

Mrs. Thompson testified "the case's notoriety" had subjected her to "indignities." She said "curious" people embarrassed her, that she was "pointed out" on the street, spent "many a sleepless night," and lost 23 pounds.

The pretty brunette woman, modishly garbed in cerise and black, said she first received word of the case March 1, 1944, when a newsman telephoned from New York to say her husband, then an Army air forces sergeant, was the father of quadruplets in England.

NEWSMEN HEAR LACK OF PAPER NOT OVER

By The Associated Press

NEW YORK, April 24 — The American Newspaper Publishers association was warned today that despite high-level production of newsprint the demand was so great that shortages would continue into 1947.

The newsprint report submitted to the 60th annual meeting declared "the short range view for U. S. publishers is, any increase in supply will be minor."

The present world shortage was laid to "loss of production of mills hurt by the war, demands on available supply by news users, mills switching to the manufacture of other grades of paper and increase in demand by newspapers."

The long range view will be determined by potential consumption in the United States, the report said. Based on the per capita use of 62.2 pounds of newsprint in 1929 and the present population the demand would be for 4,342,213 tons annually, which is 412,000 tons more than the greatest consumption year, 1941.

"A demand of anywhere near this amount would mean a shortage for many years," the report warned.

Pointing out it takes a half ton of coal to make a ton of newsprint, the report viewed the coal stoppage as a threat to production if continued much longer.

Marion's Wally Schang, Vet of 7 Series, Rated Among All-Time Sta

BY JIM DARBY

Rated one of the best catchers in baseball history, Cardinal Manager Wally Schang has a record of more than 18 years in the American League behind him. He has played in seven World Series, three with the Philadelphia Athletics, three with the New York Yankees and one with the Boston Red Sox.

Schang is starting his first full season as boss of the Marion Ohio State League entry. He came here in May 1945.

Schang, now 54, started out in baseball life as an infielder with the Depew, N. Y., semi-pro club in 1910. One day in midseason his brother Bob, who caught for the same club, split his finger and Wally made his debut as a catcher. He caught for the rest of the season.

Gets First Break

His break in professional ball came when a scout for the Buffalo club of the International League came to see his brother and stayed to sign Wally. He played with Buffalo the entire 1912 season.

In June on his first trip to the plate as a professional slugger he batted out a single. The Philadelphia Athletics drafted him that fall.

Some of his teammates that first year in the big time were Joe Judge, Coarney Jamieson, Marion Stock, Jimmy Walsh, Eddie Murphy, Eddie Plank, Frank (Home Run) Baker, Jack Berry, Eddie Collins, Stuffy McGinnis, Rube Bressler, Amos Strunk, Jack Coombs, Herb Pennock, Bullet Joe Bush and Ira Thomas.

It was as a pinch hitter age not the offerings of Ed Walsh of the White Sox that Wally made his first appearance at the plate in the majors. "I went out swinging on a third strike," he says of that eventful moment.

Caught Chief Bender

The immortal pitcher Chief Bender was responsible for his first season behind the plate in the majors. Near mid-season Bender asked Connie Mack, Athletic pilot, to "put the kid in there, I'll pitch to him."

The battery of Bender and Schang won that game. From that day forward the Chief wouldn't have anyone else behind the plate when he was hurling. Wally is proud of the fact that Bender never lost a game when Wally caught him.

He recalls that in this first game he came through with a rousing single to the outfield when the hit and run play was on.

The A's won the flag that year and went on to pin the New York Giants ears back four games to one. Wally caught the four winners.

WALLY SCHANG
Likes to Catch Fast Hurlers

He remembers a home run he got off Doc Crandall in the first game of the series. Off the great Christy Mathewson he got just one hit, a single.

Wally was first string catcher with Connie Mack's fabulous A's during the 1914 season and again they took the American league pennant. In the World Series it was a sadder tale. George Stallings' "miracle team" Boston Braves downed them four straight games with Wally catching all of them.

Included on the Braves roster for that series were Rabbit Maranville, Charley Deal, Johnny Evers, Charley Sentmott, and Hank Gowdy.

Connie Mack broke up his million dollar infield after the series although Wally stayed with the A's until the end of the 1917 season.

Thinks Bender Is Tops

Although he caught some great pitchers during his years in the majors he sticks with Bender as the best of them all. "In my estimation Chief Bender was the greatest pitcher I ever caught. Maybe I'm prejudiced, but he was the first big league hurler I caught, and the Chief pitched and won the first World Series game I ever caught," he said.

The old apitball was the hardest to catch, he said, but in present day pitching it is the knuckle ball. "The faster a pitcher is," he adds, "the easier he is to catch."

Of Bender he says, "You could almost set in a rocking chair and catch him. His control was that good."

After five years with the A's, Schang was traded to the Boston Red Sox, then under Manager Ed Barrow. They won the pennant Wally's first year.

Wally caught five of the six World Series games. The Red Sox won over the Chicago Cubs with a pitcher named Babe Ruth turning in 1-0 and 3-2 decisions.

Ruth No Slouch

"Ruth was a great pitcher," Wally says, "but his curve was not so good. He had a good fast ball though. However, he knew very little about the batters. He revealed that in 1916 Ruth won a pitching World Series game from Brooklyn with a 2-0 score.

Wally stayed with the Red Sox until 1921 when he was traded to the Yankees. He was with the New York club until 1928. During his stay with them they won the pennant three straight years, 1921-22-23.

He caught every game of the three World Series he saw while wearing the Yankee uniform. The New York Giants stunned The Yankees five games to three in 1921. The Yankee pitching staff that year included Herb Pennock, Bob Shawkey, Carl Mays, Waite Hoyt, Sad Sam Jones and Joe S

The Yanks lost four and tied one 1922 series, the Giants taking the championship. In 1923 they won four games t

Wally went to the St. Louis Bro 1926 and stayed there through 19 1930 he went back to the Philadelphia Athletics. The A's won the flag and de the St. Louis Cardinals four games t in the series.

By now Wally had been in the 18 years. The relentless pressure of surging youth told, and Wally didn any of the catching in that series. A named Mickey Cochrane was first catcher.

Ended at Chattanooga

Next year he was traded to the D Tigers, last in the American League club. May he was released to Chattanooga Southern Association where he finished the season which was his last as a full player.

He wound up his career in majors a lifetime average of .285. One yea doesn't remember which, he hit .333 the winning or tying run on base re more likely to be a .350 hitter.

(Second and final installment on Schang's career will appear tomor

ED HEAD'S NO-HITTER BOLSTERS DODGER'S TITLE CHANCES

Ex-GI Blanks Boston 5 to 0; Cards Toss Reds in Cellar

By JACK HAND
Associated Press Sports Writer

Ed Head's no-hitter dwarfs the rest of the baseball news today, emphasizing the latent strength of a Brooklyn staff that may give the St. Louis Cardinals many anxious moments.

Not so long ago in Sanford, Fla., President Branch Rickey of the Flock despaired of the Dodger hurling corps. B R said he didn't have a single first class "stopper" in the bunch.

* * *

That was before Kirby Higbe returned from the Army, before Joe Hatten signed a contract, before anybody ever heard of Hank Behrman and—before Head proved his right arm was sound.

The lean righthander from Selma, La., couldn't have picked a more effective way of proving to the Brooklyn management that he had completely recovered from arm trouble that once threatened to end his big league career.

First Start Since '44

Making his first start since July, 1944, the ex-GI definitely established himself as a first line chucker on Leo Durocher's list although the skipper wasn't around to see the fun. Leo was busy appearing in a Brooklyn court in connection with his alleged battle with a fan at Ebbetts Field last summer.

Head was the last of the first string tossers to get a starting shot as Durocher had paraded Hal Gregg, Behrman, Vic Lombardi, Higbe, Hatten and Ralph Branca in order.

The 26-year-old chucker, who started life as a lefthander but shifted over to the other side after breaking his left arm in an accident, left little to be desired. Several hundred of the 28,787 Brooklyn customers mobbed him with congratulations after the final out.

Head walked three men and one got a life on an error by shortstop Pee Wee Reese. Fine fielding plays saved him three times. Rookie Carl Furillo ran to the exit gate in right center to drag down Tommy Holmes' long drive and Pete Reiser made a fine stop on Al Roberge's smash in the third.

The most exciting touch was provided by rookie catcher Ferrell Anderson who had hit his first big league homer in the sixth for the final run of the Brooks' 5-0 margin over Boston's Mort Cooper. After Head walked pinch hitter Chuck Workman in the ninth, he struck out Connie Ryan and Anderson's bullet peg to first picked off Workman for a most important double play.

It was a sixth straight win for the Dodgers but they needed it to remain in a first place tie with the St. Louis Cardinals who also reeled off a sixth successive victory at the expense of Cincinnati, 3-2. Reliefer Ken Burkhart, the second of three Red Bird cluckers, received the credit when three singles, an error and an outfield fly cost Nate (Hard Luck) Andrews another setback.

Ewell Blackwell, Cincinnati's six-foot five-inch right hander, makes his debut as a major league starter today in the finale of the Reds' three-game series with the Cardinals.

Blackwell, an ex-GI who appeared briefly in a relief role last week, is considered the most promising young pitcher on the Redleg staff. He won 15 and lost 10 for Syracuse in 1942 before entering the Army.

Manager Eddie Dyer has named Lefty Howie Pollet to start for St. Louis.

Passeau Gets No 1

Freshman Billy Cox bobbled a ball at shortstop that helped Chicago trim Pittsburgh, 3-1, for Claude Passeau's first win of the campaign. Rookie Ad Ablosta matched Passeau's five-hit effort but walked 10 men.

Oscar Judd bounced back from an opening day shellacking to toss Philadelphia to an 8-1 edge over the New York Giants with the help of Ron Northey's two-run homer off Harry Feldman.

The New York Yankees advanced into a first place tie with Boston by blanking Philadelphia, 3-0. It was a second straight nod for Al Gettel, who traveled north with the Yanks' "B" squad, over the Mackmen. Nick Etten's two-run homer doomed Lum Harris.

Washington pulled the Red Sox back into a deadlock with the Yanks by scoring six times in the 11th for an 8-2 verdict over Fireman Mike Ryba. Roger Wolff finally received credit for the Nats' triumph after the wild 11th in which Gerry Priddy homered with two on.

Boston and New York open an interesting two-game series at Fenway park today.

Bill Dietrich outpitched Al Benton as Chicago trimmed Detroit, 3-1, although a stomach ailment forced Dietrich to retire after seven frames. Joe Haynes, who relieved was just as good, protecting a five-hit effort.

A scheduled Cleveland at St. Louis contest was rained out.

Bob Quinn, Old Marion Star, Enters Baseball Roll of Honor

In First Group Elected for Award; Eleven Make Hall of Fame.

J. A. (Bob) Quinn, former Marion baseball player of some 45 years ago, has been named to the first honor rolls of baseball by a special oldtimers committee appointed by the late Commissioner K. M. Landis to honor baseball figures who otherwise might never be elected. Quinn was elected for his work as an executive. The Associated Press reported today.

The honor rolls were created to honor men who made outstanding contributions other than as active players. Named to the Hall of Fame at Cooperstown, N. Y., were 11 players including the famous Chicago Cubs double play combination of Tinker to Evers to Chance.

Caught for Marion

Quinn first played baseball in Marion with an independent pro team owned by Edson F. Campbell of 318 East Church street. He was a catcher.

Former acquaintances recall that Quinn played on a Marion team which forced the Cincinnati Reds to go 10 innings to defeat them in an exhibition game at Marion.

BOB QUINN

Quinn went from here to the Columbus Senators where he caught for part of a season. He became business manager and from then on was connected with the executive side of baseball. He was later with the St. Louis Browns, Brooklyn and the Boston Braves.

Now connected with the Wilson Sport Goods Company, Quinn will be one of the guests of honors at the baseball banquet at Masonic Temple April 29.

Real Old Timers

Joe Tinker was the Cubs' shortstop from 1902 to 1912 while Johnny Evers was playing second base and Frank Chance, "The Peerless Leader" was on first base and managing most of the time.

Two outfielders were selected, Jesse Burkett who hit .423 and .410 for Cleveland in the National league in 1895 and 1896 and later starred with the St. Louis Browns and Tom McCarthy, a star of the Browns in the old "four time winners' days.

Of the six pitchers elected by the committee, two were lefthanders—Rube Waddell, the eccentric ace of Philadelphia Athletics from 1902 to 1907 and Eddie Plank who was his teammate. Big Ed Walsh of the Chicago White Sox, who won 40 games in 1908, was picked, as were Jack Chesbro, who won 14 straight for the New York Highlanders in 1905, and Clark Griffith who pitched and managed at Chicago, New York, Cincinnati and Washington. Joe (Iron Man) McGinnity of the New York Giants, a 35-game winner for John McGraw in 1904 was the sixth hurler.

First Honor Rolls

The committee also announced, after its meeting yesterday in the New York Yankees' office, its first selections to the honor rolls of baseball, created to honor men who made outstanding contributions other than as active players.

Baseball writers named were:

Walter Barnes and T. H. Murname of Boston, Harry E. Cross, Sid Mercer, William Hannah, William Slocum, George Tilden and Joe Vila of New York, Frank Hough of Philadelphia, Cy Sanborn of Chicago, John B. Sheridan of St. Louis and Frank Richter.

Umpires named were:

Thomas Connolly, William Dineen, Robert Emslie, William Evans, John Gaffney, Timothy Hurst, William Klem, "Honest John" Kelly, Thomas Lynch, "Silk" O'Loughlin and Jack Sheridan.

Managers named were:

William Carrigan, Edward Hanlon, Miller J. Huggins, Frank Seeley and John M. Ward.

Executives named, in addition to Quinn were:

E. S. Barnard, Edward G. Barrow, John Bruce, John T. Brush, Barney Dreyfuss, Charles Ebbets, August Herrmann, John A. Heydler, Arthur H. Soden and Nicholas Young.

LOUISVILLE SPOILS COLUMBUS OPENER

Colonels Defeat Birds 7 to 3; Toledo Wins 7-1.

By The Associated Press

Minneapolis and Louisville continued their deadlock duel for first place in the American Association yesterday by winning. The Millers edged out Kansas City, 3-2, and Louisville, last year's playoff champion, had little trouble dumping Columbus, 7-3. It was Columbus' home opener.

In the fourth game of the day, Toledo easily romped over Indianapolis, 7-1.

The Milwaukee Brewers, champions the past three years, still have a lot of catching up ahead of them before they get to the top of the league's standings, but they apparently are ready to make a spurt toward that goal after a somewhat shaky start.

The Brewers had won only one game in their first five starts until yesterday, when they beat St. Paul, 8-2. They found themselves in that game, however, and slammed out 13 hits, including a home run and six doubles, to move from the bottom of the standings into seventh place.

Part of their success was due to a ground rule instituted because of an all-time record crowd of 21,449 fans at the Saints' Lexington park. Hits that under ordinary circumstances would have been easy outs were ruled doubles because the crowd overflowed into the outfield.

Will Try Purdue Star in Field Against Lefties.

By The Associated Press

ST. LOUIS, April 24—In another move to bolster the Cleveland Indians' batting attack, Manager Lou Boudreau announced today that former Purdue football star Felix Mckiewicz will appear in centerfield for the Tribe in future contests against left-handed pitching.

Mackiewicz, who uncorked some standout wartime outfield feats for the Indians last year and ranked near the top of the roster in batting, will alternate with rookie Bob Lemon, a left-handed batter, in the center pasture, Boudreau said.

The Tribe makes a second attempt to take the field against the St. Louis Browns today following postponement of yesterday's contest because of rain. Tribe Rookie Charles (Red) Embree and veteran Denny Galehouse are slated for mound duty.

Month of Mourning for Stone Directed

By The Associated Press

WASHINGTON, April 24—For the second time in a year, the United States went into a month of official mourning today—this time for Chief Justice Harlan F. Stone.

President Truman late yesterday ordered flags lowered to half staff over all government buildings in this country and abroad for the 30-day mourning period. He also directed that "the usual and appropriate military and naval honors be rendered "in recognition of Stone's "eminent and varied services."

Funeral services for Stone, who died Monday of a cerebral hemorrhage, will be held at 2 p. m. tomorrow.

Last year at this time, the nation mourned Franklin D. Roosevelt, who died April 12.

Paludrine, a drug stemming from bituminous coal, now is reported to render malaria no more harmful than the common cold.

ELECTRICAL STRIKE ENTERS 100TH DAY

By The Associated Press

PITTSBURGH, April 24 — The Westinghouse Electric Corp. strike entered its 100th day today with company officials declaring the nation's longest major walkout had crippled reconversion in the electrical and allied industries.

From conference rooms here, where negotiations were resumed last week after a month's inactivity, came little news for the 76,000 production workers who quit work January 15 in the demand of the CIO-United Electrical, Machine and Radio Workers for wage boosts of $2 a day—now reduced to 18½ cents an hour.

Employes in 23 Westinghouse plants over the nation are involved. Westinghouse officials reported the workers are losing $642,000 per working day, or well over $43,000,000 to date. Officials put total loss of business at $100,000,000.

The company's current offer is for average increases of 15.1 cents an hour for all types of employes, a figure it said would cost $3,000,000 a year or $4,000,000 more than the firm's 1945 net profit. Production workers, who constitute more than half all hourly paid employes, would receive 17½ cents an hour and unionized salary employes would get $30.00 a month more.

Westinghouse reported its monthly sales down to $10,000,000, compared to $57,000,000 this time last year, and said the strike caused:

"Complete stoppage of the company's reconversion and expansion program as well as hampered reconversion in allied industries. A similar interruption noted of reconversion programs of the company's customers—industries, utilities, railroads, appliance distributors and dealers, builders, home-owners and housewives."

The Pennsylvania railroad blamed the Westinghouse strike for a part of decline in "general business." A division superintendent of the New York Central system said the strike—along with the coal work stoppage—was cutting into its revenue sharply.

Struck plants include those at Cleveland, Mansfield and Lima, Ohio.

EXPRESS CO. STRIKE TIES DETROIT AREA

By The Associated Press

DETROIT, April 24—Business at the Detroit Railway Express Co. terminal was tied up today for the third straight day as 1,000 workers remained away from their jobs in the possible forerunner of a nationwide express walkout.

Formal notification of a general strike of 63,000 AFL Express Co. workers at 12:01 a. m. Friday was received last night by the National (Railway) Mediation Board at Washington, but a New York strike apparently was set for 24 hours earlier.

George M. Harrison, grand president of the AFL Brotherhood of Railway and Steamship Workers, announced the countrywide plan. In New York, Local 2130 President Daniel Harrison said instructions had been sent to the 12,000 metropolitan workers to halt all operations at midnight Wednesday.

The Detroit tieup began Monday when employes walked out to attend a union meeting to consider the company's wage increase offer of 10 cents hourly. The union, which has demanded a 16-cent hourly boost, voted down the proposal.

A similar dispute of the 16-cent raise question led to authorization of the nationwide strike. President Harrison stated at Cincinnati. The raise, he added, was asked to match one granted to railway workers by the National Mediation Board.

Local company officials said they were making "all possible efforts" to ship out perishable goods now in terminals, and union officers agreed not to interfere with consignees wishing to pick up their merchandise at the express offices. All animals and poultry at the terminals had been picked up, the company announced.

Mrs. Effie Elliott was appointed bereavement chairman, with Mrs. Ardetha Clifton, Mrs. Anita Conkle and Mrs. Mae Baldauf assisting; Mrs. Jennie Bailey and Mrs. Marguerite Bailey, ways and means. LOVE'S FAIR HORIZON

By ADELE GARRISON

"I CONFESS I had not thought of Roderick when anticipating trouble," Olga went on before I could answer her question. "I only had thought of Noel's possible reaction to Olina's announcement, and especially to the exhibition of that ancient betrothal ring. If she weren't bent on wearing that —flaunting it, really—I think the mere engagement announcement wouldn't matter so much."

"I know it wouldn't," I said, and she went on hurriedly.

"Of course Roderick is Mary's brother, and I suppose he is devoted to her?"

Idolizes Mary

"He idolizes her, I said, "and I am afraid he will hotly resent any fancied slight to her. But with his uncle and cousin on either side of him, he will not say or do anything unseemingly."

"You can't guarantee that for Noel, can you?" she said with a wan smile. We had gone into the library where Charles could not hear us.

"No, I can't," I said , "but I will do my very best to calm him if he should get obstreperous."

"What is it I have heard Dicky say—that your best is very good indeed?" she said with a wan smile.

Then she gave a sigh that I knew came from the depths of her tortured heart.

No Other Explanation

"I wish I knew what evil spirit is possessing Olina," she said. "I can think of no other explanation of her conduct. And, do you know, I believe her better nature is struggling against her action. I can think of no other reason for her delay in appearing to greet our guests. She is alway promptness itself at any function. She has been trained to that from her babyhood. I do not blame Philip for being annoyed at her, although, of course, mother-like, I tried to excuse her."

"I do not think Philip was really annoyed," I told her smiling. "But, of course, being a man, he had to stick a pin into something, somewhere."

She laughed suddenly, a sound with no mirth in it, but which still held a nuance of relief.

"Oh, dear Madge," she exclaimed, "what should I ever do without you! You always contrive to soften things, make them a bit brighter."

"I am afraid your husband might say that I was trying to be 'the comic relief,'" I told her. But she shook her head with decision.

Nothing So Crass

"He would never say anything so crass," she said. "If he did, I think I should—what do you say—smack him?"

"And then he would be surprised," I said idly, and she put her hand upon my arm.

"Let us go back into the living room," she said. "Olina must be coming along here in a minute or two, and I don't want her to think I was watching for her."

"No, that wouldn't be so good," I said mechanically, and went with her back to the living room.

We found the groups as we had left them, except that Mary and Noel were now sealed. But I noticed that Mary's chair was placed so that it directly faced the door through which Olina must come into the room, and that she was nearer to the door than any other person in the room. Noel was seated near enough to her for conversations, but farther away from the door.

Watching the Door

I saw that Mary, without appearing to do so, was fixedly watching the door, but I had no further opportunity for watching her. Philip and Noel rose to their feet as we came into the room—the boys were still standing a little back of Dicky's wheel chair—and we were drawn immediately into animated conversation.

It was Philip, a little later, who put the question that lay just behind the lips of all the rest of us.

"Don't you think, my dear," he said to his wife, "that you had better go to see what is keeping Olina? It is not like her to be so unpunctual."

"Perhaps I should," Olga said reluctantly, and I knew that she saw she could not put off the unpleasant errant any longer.

But as she started toward the door into the library, it opened slowly, and Olina stood framed within it.

Church Lecture Is Given Here

Richard P. Verrall Speaks on "Christian Science: Its Theory and Practice."

A lecture on Christian Science entitled "Christian Science: Its Theory and Practice," was given in the First Church of Christ, Scientist, at Mt. Vernon avenue and Church street Tuesday night by Richard P. Verrall, C.S., of New York City. Mr. Verrall is a member of the board of lectureship of The Mother Church, The First Church of Christ, Scientist, in Boston, Mass.

Mr. Verrall said that the efficacy of Christian Science was first demonstrated to him through the reading of "Science and Health with Key to the Scriptures" by Mary Baker Eddy, the Discoverer and Founder of Christian Science. He stated that in reading this book he was reminded of the words of a famous preacher who said, "I know that the Bible is inspired because it inspires me." The lecturer, too, knew from the first that the Christian Science textbook is inspired, because it so changed his thinking that many tormenting fears and bodily ills which before were rampant gradually disappeared and have never returned.

The mission of Christian Science, the lecturer remarked, is to remove the mystery that is supposed to surround the nature of Godliness, and to enable mankind to have the same Mind that was the sole motivating power of Christ Jesus.

The teachings of Mary Baker Eddy were to him a direct answer to prayer, the speaker asserted, stating that he found in them the answers to the questions that had previously perplexed him, and he discovered that both his reason and his aspiration for spiritual things were satisfied. Many, like himself, who had never dreamed that the reading of a book could heal the sick, were emancipated from both acute and chronic diseases, he said.

The healing influence of Christian Science is purely spiritual, Mr. Verrall pointed out. It is the conscious reunion of mankind with God. It is called "Truth-healing" because, in its practice, Truth destroys error and overcomes evil with good, he continued, and added further that Christian Science is called "Christ-healing" because it is the human surrender to the Christ-idea that destroys both the love of matter and the fear of losing it.

The lecturer asserted that Truth is not coming true, it is true. Mrs. Eddy saw that the prayer, "Thy kingdom come," really means "Science and Health, p. 16), "Thy kingdom is come. Thou art ever-present." It is with this though in mind that the Christian Scientist offers his prayer. He knows that God's work is done. Mr. Verrall affirmed, and that mankind only needs to be awakened from the belief of a separate existence in matter in order to realize that God's kingdom is come. Surely the Apostle Paul must have understood this when he said, "In Him we live, and move, and have our being."

The speaker closed with the following words which briefly sum up the tenor of Mrs. Eddy's instructions to her followers everywhere (Message to The Mother Church for 1901, p. 34) "Finally, brethren, wait patiently on God, return blessing for evil, but overcome evil with good, be steadfast, abide and abound in faith, understanding, and good works, . . . obey strictly the laws that be, and follow your Leader only so far as she follows Christ."

JET PLANES TO RACE ALONE AT CLEVELAND

By The Associated Press

CLEVELAND, April 24 — Jet planes and those powered by conventional reciprocating gasoline engines will be classed separately in the 1946 National Air races, it was indicated today by the preliminary plans for the event, being revived for the first time since the war.

Because of the jets' speed advantage, separate prizes would be given when both types compete in a single race, and several separate events are being considered, sponsors of the program decided at a meeting yesterday.

Under this policy the Thompson trophy race, a 300-mile event over a 10-mile circular course, would have one division for jet planes and another for the older type planes. Whether jet planes would be included in the Bendix transcontinental race from Los Angeles to New York via Cleveland was not decided.

By formal action the sponsoring group set the race period for Friday, Aug. 30, through Labor Day, Monday, Sept. 2, said General Manager Ben T. Franklin.

Definite scheduling of the competitive events will not be attempted until recommendations are received from the contest board of the National Aeronautics association.

YOUR HEALTH

By HERMAN BUNDESEN, M.D.

Fever

Fever is the body's great battle chart. First, by its very presence, it tells the doctor that a fight against an invader is under way and, by its later ups and downs, shows him how that struggle is progressing.

Ordinarily, of course, fever is not the sole sign of disease. The enemy will betray his presence and identity in many other ways, but sometimes he works so secretly that fever gives the first and only signal that help is needed.

In these cases, the doctor's job is likely to be difficult. He knows that the battle is joined but is unable to identify the masked and hidden foe and until he does, he can do little to aid.

One of these conditions is what is known as postnasal infection. This is an infection in the back part of the nose. However, a careful examination of the sinuses, including the use of X-ray and what is known as transillumination may help show when the difficulty is located in these areas.

Transillumination is carried out by putting the patient in a dark room and shining a light through the sinuses. If there is infection in the sinuses, the presence of secretions or thickening of the membranes will keep the light from passing through.

Of course, many people know that tuberculosis may be present for some time without causing noticeable symptoms other than a slight rise in temperature particularly in the afternoon. According to Dr. F. Kenneth Albrecht of Florida, an early diagnosis of tuberculosis requires the taking of an X-ray of the chest, together with an examination of the sputum for the presence of the tuberculosis germs.

Another cause of hidden or obscure fever is undulant fever. This condition may be present for years without causing enough symptoms to make its diagnosis easy. In fact, fever may be the only symptom present. After a time, however, there may be such things as weakness, loss of weight, anemia or lessening of the coloring in the blood, and mental depression.

There are certain tests which can be made that are helpful. One of these is an agglutination test in which it is determined whether or not the patient's serum will cause the germs known as the Brucella, which cause this disease to collect in clumps. A skin test may also be carried out by injecting killed germs into the skin and noting whether a reaction occurs in the form of redness.

QUESTIONS AND ANSWERS

M. O.: I have severe headaches and for several days after, my nose needs blowing constantly. I blow out dark red clots and there is also a thick, yellowish discharge from my left eye. What is the cause?

Answer: It is probable that the trouble you have is due to a chronic sinus infection. However, it may be that your symptoms are due to allergy or sensitivity to some pollen or dust, or other substance with which you come in contact.

Examination by a nose and throat specialist would be advisable.

Bear Tracks

NOTHING that might have happened at this point in the curious "friendship" between the Soviet Union and Iran could excite more suspicion than censorship on Iranian news.

There is only one reason for censorship—to keep something from getting out of the country that would embarrass politicians. In the case of Iran, unfortunately, the politicians' allegiance is not entirely clear.

That is, it is not possible to know whether their newly-found Russian friend and ally has clapped a hand over their mouths to keep them from talking, or whether he has given them a signal for them to clap their hand over someone else's mouth.

This is another of the cases so common in countries on Russia's borders. No one actually has seen the bear, but everyone can see bear tracks. A bear track is strong circumstantial evidence of a bear. Censorship is strong circumstantial evidence of Russian methods in Teheran.

Accidental Monument

THE death of Lord Keynes, Britain's unorthodox economist whose ideas were taken to heart by the Roosevelt administration, finds this country taking note of a statement by 30 of its 48 governors for a balanced budget.

Lord Keynes' best known economic unorthodoxy was the idea of spending away a depression by going into debt. This happened to suit the political requirements of the Roosevelt administration. The Briton's idea and the American strategy of spend-and-spend-and-elect-and-elect made a powerful combination.

If Lord Keynes had searched the world over, he could have found no more impressive trifolin to the power of his idea than the monumental debt of the United States. It will remain for many years to come as one of the greatest accidental monuments ever erected to economic unorthodoxy—as well as a monumental accident to the old-fashioned idea that debt should be related to ability to pay.

What Part Shall We Support?

THE claim that everyone should support OPA to stave off inflation runs into one grave difficulty, besides the obvious fact that inflation cannot be staved off because it is already here and being encouraged to get worse by the same administration which claims to be resisting it.

It is impossible to know what part of OPA the cheerleaders expect the people to support. As for themselves, they are supporting every part of it, which is one major reason the public is critical of them. The public is more discriminating in its allegiance.

For example, it does not care to support the part of OPA that enables a fly-by-night business to take over production of some article at several times the allowable sale price of the same article produced by an established firm. That is economically stupid and commercially dishonest.

Nor does it care to support any aspect of OPA representing caprice, or the whims, ignorance and malice of its employes. There is nothing sacrosanct about OPA, despite the calls to worship being issued by its defenders. They are in the awkward and indefensible position of defending something which has become very largely indefensible.

They talk about principles, which are above reproach. The public is talking about practices, which aren't. If OPA honestly thinks it deserves to be preserved in status quo, without interference from the bothersome people or the meddling congress, it should have taken steps long ago to get its status quo in better condition for the showdown.

Union Workmen on the Diamond

WHATEVER becomes of the newest effort to organize professional baseball players, the idea is piquant. Here, surely, in a profession that enables a star to earn what the traffic will bear, is one of the strongholds of individual bargaining.

The unionizing appeal, however, is not to the stars, but to organized baseball's toilers in the vineyard—the players hoping to be stars and the players whose limitations have forced them to abandon their hopes. It is especially to players in the minor leagues, hoping for a chance to go up and struggling to make ends meet while they serve their time of seasoning. There are dozens of these for every famous player in the majors, and if the big business of baseball has not persuaded them that the game is worth the flickering candle of potential wealth and fame the latest attempt to unionize them will have been handed a free trip to first base.

Unfortunately, there is more to the problem than any deliberate oversight by owners, such vexing details as meager gate receipts in apathetic cities, for instance. Perhaps the promoters of union baseball will have an answer for that, too. If they don't, the unexpected consequence of their efforts might be to kill small-time baseball, as another amusement enterprise, the legitimate theater, was killed in its small-time efforts by costs that could not be borne by income.

News Behind the News

By PAUL MALLON

One Fact Overlooked in OPA Fuss.

WASHINGTON, April 24—The overlooked fact in most accounts of the recent OPA controversy was that the legislation proposed extension until next March 31, nine months more. The way some of the stories read you might think discontinuance was immediate. The opposition statements of Messrs. Bowles and Porter absorbed attention of the reporters entirely. When the extension date was mentioned, it frequently was presented as I have done above, in a confusing way. Actually, the extension works out to be more than eleven months from now, and nine months beyond the expiration date of OPA powers on June 30.

A lot of water may go over many dams in the next eleven months and the continuance of the government's powers to act against prices for that long a time would hardly be called destruction of OPA.

Amendments

What angered the administration to unusual bitterness against the bill were the amendments. One amendment proposed what was generally described as "cost plus reasonable profits to producers and handlers." OPA contended this would upset their ceilings on many of the major items of production, autos, rubber and milk. This would depend upon whether their ceilings now carry "cost plus profit" on these items and it would require a skilled mathematician a week to figure out the involved formula for one item. Frankly I would not attempt to referee this argument.

Certainly, however, the general notion of "cost plus a reasonable profit" does not sound like an unreasonable invasion of the consumers' rights, or what OPA is supposed to have been doing.

There was one amendment which seemed to me logically what might possibly be called "murderous" of OPA, as one irate Democratic congressman termed the bill, which was approved on a final passage by 285 Democrats, including himself, and 148 Republicans. This was the one to drop control over certain articles when their production reaches the level of production of the year July 1, 1939 to June 30, 1941—which was far from the "peak year" it was described to be in one of the accounts. Production did not reach a peak until the last year of the war.

Logical

Now it would be entirely logical and sensible for price controls to be removed the moment production reaches current demand. Of course current consumer demand is greater than July 1940-June 1941. It is very much greater, due to the accumulation of demand for consumer goods during the war. It might be "murderous" to OPA to impose that new formula on cessation of regulations, but it would be what fairness demands. Relief of regulations should be timed to the period when production can care for the present demand, when the pressure of shortages for higher prices has been relieved.

The other important amendment called for gradual elimination of subsidies. Frankly, I have never liked subsidies. The theory is wrong to pay from the treasury, which is the money of all the people (and their debt now is heavy), a certain portion of the price which should be paid by the man who buys the article. Not even Mr. Truman has defended subsidies as a permanent proposition. Whether the time limit fixed by the house would work efficiently, again calls for intricate technical knowledge of the effect of the removal on each article at each time.

A revision of the bill by the senate is being prophesied by most authorities, but it is not likely to be a fullpower lease of existing authority as the administration has been demanding.

Just a Minute

And Uncle Sam Will Pay The Piper

It is now revealed that the educational provisions of the GI Bill of Rights are applicable to dancing schools.

Congress has made every effort to aid the returning serviceman. Money is available with which he can buy a business, build a house or attend one of the better known educational institutions — Yale, Harvard or Arthur Murray's.

Thus the veteran is currently faced with a difficult choice: Shall he matriculate at Massachusetts Tech . . . or Roseland Terpsichorean?

Reports are a great many ex-servicemen are enrolling in dancing schools, including—surprisingly enough—not a few former infantrymen.

These latter may have difficulty remembering which is their left foot, after so long with their sergeants telling them both were.

But it's inspiring that, for all his extensive traveling, GI Joe still thirsts after knowledge—if only of how to trip the light fantastic.

Incidentally, news that it takes two or three years to become graduate dancing masters comes as no surprise to former enlisted men. After all, it took 90 days to make second lieutenants.

Preserving the History of Ohio

The Ohio State Archaeological and Historical society has just issued an illustrated booklet describing the work of the society. Founded in 1885 by a group of men interested in preserving the history of Ohio, the society has developed gradually through the years and now maintains the Ohio State Museum located in Columbus as headquarters, and 50 state memorials in different parts of the state.

Among the collections at the Museum are exhibits of artifacts taken from mounds, village sites and burials of the prehistoric Indians, historic Indian materials and displays which depict the history of Ohio from the earliest pioneers to the present. The animals, plants and minerals of the state are shown in the exhibits of the natural history department.

The Museum building also houses a specialized library containing books, newspapers, paintings, photographs, maps, and manuscripts pertaining to Ohio's history, archaeology and natural history.

In its publications program the Historical society provides printed materials in the various fields of its work and encourages research and writing along these lines by furnishing facilities for publication.

The booklet states that the educational program is designed to serve both children and adults and provides loan collections of visual aids for all schools of the state. Regular classes visit the Ohio State Museum, guide and lecture service is available to other visiting groups and radio dramatizations of Ohio History are given over the School of the Air program. Each year the Society also offers to the general public a lecture series.

A complete list of the State Memorials and their locations is given. These sites portray to those who visit them, the history of Ohio from prehistoric times to the present. This booklet is free on request to the Ohio State Museum.

Russia Likes Korea Too

Promise of Postwar Independence Revoked.

IN KOREA, soldiers of the United States and the Soviet Union are facing each other across a vaguely defined line of separation in an attitude of suspense that might flare into a major international incident.

Korea, though not an enemy country, is "occupied" by American and Russian troops. An arbitrary line marks areas of influence. Efforts to reach an understanding have been fruitless.

In a dispatch from Seoul, capital of Korea, Associated Press Correspondent Morrie Landsberg writes that few Americans have seen what goes on in Russia's section of the country—the part lying north of the 38th parallel. By contrast, the Soviet Union maintains a consulate in Seoul, lying in the American zone, with no restrictions on movement of personnel.

Many Americans, Landsberg says, believe Russia wants privacy in Korea because it has been following the same policy of looting that stripped Manchuria. Northern Korea contained half a dozen important Japanese factories producing bearings, mining machinery, electric and airplane motors, pumps, hoists, precision instruments and steel cable.

Former residents of the Russian zone, he continues, say there is no freedom of speech, press, religion or assembly in that sector. The government apparently is in the nominal control of Koreans under the name of the People's Committee, controlled by the Communists and supervised by Russians.

"The people have little contact with the outside world," Landsberg reports, "except through dispatches of Tass, official Soviet news agency. Newspapers publish Joseph Stalin's speeches and news about the U.S.S.R. American radio news from Seoul is reported jammed. Portraits of Stalin, Lenin and a Gen. Kim Il Sung, chairman of the People's committee, are displayed. Newspapers are critical of developments in the American sector, speaking of Korean officials there as 'fascist' and pro-Japanese."

Complete independence for Korea was promised by the Allies during the war, obviously in the hope of stirring up Korean rebellion against Japan. In events leading up to the Russo-Japanese war early in this century, Korea became to the Japanese government a "dagger" pointed at the nation's heart — the same complaint which Germany was to make before World War II about Czechoslavakia.

Koreans had been promised complete independence during the Sino-Japanese war of 1894-95, which also was fought largely for control of the strategically-situated peninsula. But after conclusion of its unsuccessful war with Japan in 1904-05, Russian conceded that Japan had paramount interest.

Japan continued the military occupation of Korea and in 1910 annexed the country outright.

MAC IS STILL DOING THE DRIVING

From News of Other Years

TEN YEARS AGO

It was Friday, April 24, 1936.

Democratic leaders in Washington, arranging June Convention plans, considered the idea of holding a giant open air ceremony at Franklin field, Philadelphia, to notify President Roosevelt of his renomination. It was estimated that around 100,000 persons could watch the ceremony and hear the President's speech of acceptance.

Mrs. Helen B. Burdeal, wealthy Cincinnati widow, sought in a court action to obtain return of $15,300 in gems which she said she deposited with operators of a roadhouse for credit to be used in gambling.

Miss Mary Jeannette Fite, a member of one of Marion's distinguished families, died at her home at 341 South Vine street.

Marion Camp No. 32, United Spanish War Veterans and Betsy Ross auxiliary held a joint meeting at the armory to observe the anniversary of the United States' declaration of war with Spain.

Mrs. C. H. Lindsay was elected president of the Westminster Bible class of the First Presbyterian Sunday school at a meeting held in the home of Mrs. Jesse Wood on West Columbia street.

TWENTY YEARS AGO

It was Saturday, April 24, 1926.

Four persons were killed in a wind storm of tornado proportions which swept Texas and Oklahoma.

Mayor Earl Hazen announced that with increase of automobile traffic resulting from the advent of spring, traffic ordinances here would be strictly enforceed. Similar action was to be taken by county authorities, it was reported, and Deputy Sheriff Vane Ireland prepared for motorcycle patrol service on the highways.

President Coolidge announced that reports from various federal departments indicated a favorable business outlook for the summer. Recent recession of the stock market which led to the survey was declared to be a natural reaction and without significance to general business conditions of the country.

The Canto club arranged to present a cantata, "The Highwayman," May 4 at the Grand theater in observance of national music week.

The weekly report of City Clerk H. K. Stofer was taken as an indication of improving building conditions in Marion. Building permits issued during the week totalled $9,650. Two permits were for new dwellings, three for additions to dwellings and eight for garages.

"Ever Normal Fish Freezer" Advocated

By The Associated Press

ST. PETERSBURG, Fla.—Addressing the convention of the Gulf Coast Fishermen's Union, Dr. R. A. Kahn, of the Fish and Wildlife Service, Department of Interior, said:

"Loans are used by the Department of Agriculture in some cases in which it is desired to support a certain parity price. Such an idea could conceivably be developed for the fisheries to provide the 'ever normal fish freezer' as compared with agriculture's concept of the 'ever normal granary.' Fish could be bought or pledged for loans during times of glut to be held over for times of scarcity."

Draft Dodgers Still at It

By BRACK CURRY

WASHINGTON—Draft dodging didn't stop with V-J day.

The Federal Bureau of Investigation has handled more than 25,000 reports of Selective Service violations since Aug. 14, 1945. In March alone, about 3,000 new cases, chiefly involving men under 26, were opened by the FBI. The figure for February was 3,055.

FBI Director J. Edgar Hoover says more new cases are being opened daily.

Hoover told me that "since the Japanese surrendered, sentences totaling more than 2,100 years have been meted out to nearly 1,000 violators of the Selective Service Act. The majority of those convicted, however, were persons between 26 and 30 years of age whose violations occurred prior to V-J day.

Most Before V-J Day

"Similarly, of the 12,300 pending Selective Service cases now in the FBI's files, the majority were opened prior to V-J day and involved registrants over 26."

He pointed out that many registrants unintentionally violate the draft act and said the FBI is following its wartime policy of making these men available to the armed forces rather than putting them in jail.

Hoover said that since 1940, when Congress passed the Selective Service Act, the FBI has handled 549,082 draft cases involving enough men to fill more than 30 infantry divisions.

Over 14,000 of the registrants investigated drew prison sentences, he said. The remainder entered the armed forces or satisfactorily explained their violations.

Methods used by peace time draft evaders were "just as varied and ingenious as during the war," Hoover said.

On one occasion the FBI was asked to investigate twin brothers in Alabama. Agents found that the twins held birth certificates listing their ages as below the induction age. Yet they appeared to be eligible for the draft.

The certificates were based on an affidavit by a notary public who certified that he had examined the family Bible to establish the birth date. Examiners in the FBI laboratory checked the Bible.

Deception Discovered

Births of the twins allegedly were listed when they occurred, but the FBI found that this edition of the Bible was not authorized for printing before March 1939. They also discovered that the volume bore evidence of artificial aging.

Hoover said further investigation disclosed that the parents and the notary public "had deliberately arranged the preparation of the false birth certificates. All three were convicted of violating the Selective Service act."

Another investigation turned up a murderer.

"This man religiously kept in touch with his draft board until Thanksgiving, 1944," Hoover related. "Shortly thereafter his board was unable to locate him.

"Local officers and FBI agents apprehended him two years later and learned that about Thanksgiving, 1944, this man had been hunting, and during an argument he shot and killed his hunting companion.

"He then fled. At the October, 1945, term of court in a southern state he was sentenced to 20 years in prison on the murder charge."

Setting the future scene.

Oh, it alone there is future hope—
This is the one last chance!

Slam it for what it does—
Scoff at its chances of coming through—

Here is the hope of the weak and strong,

Last year, 1,081,000 persons came to the institute, while 1,036,366 went to Wrigley Field sports stadium to see the Chicago Cubs, champions of the National League, play baseball.

The institute occupies an imposing building close to Lake Michigan. The structure, built of limestone in Italian renaissance style, was erected in 1893. The exterior is stained by the soot of many winters. But little dust settles in the busy interior. The art school, with a current enrollment of 6,800, is the largest in the world.

CPA Says U. S. Tire Industry May Top Goal of 66,000,000

By The Associated Press

WASHINGTON, April 24—Good news for motorists: The rubber industry bids fair to surpass its towering production goal of 66,000,000 new passenger tires this year.

Civilian production officials made this encouraging forecast today, saying the record output drive was being helped by new cotton yarn controls protecting tire cord supplies.

The industry's goal is 13,000,000 tires more than the estimated 53,000,000 passenger casings produced in the previous banner year of 1941.

Despite the present bright outlook, CPA officials cautioned motorists that retail dealers probably would continue to run a week or two behind on tire deliveries throughout the summer, catching up with day-to-day demand only in the final quarter of the year.

"Shop Early"

As advice to intending vacationers, one CPA spokesman offered: "Put yourself on a dealer's list in plenty of time, expect delivery in 10 days to two weeks, have one of the old tires retreaded for a spare."

Far in the forefront of reconversion, tire manufacturers so far this year have eclipsed 1941's peak production rate but are crowding the limit of their materials supply.

One major difficulty, the shortage of yarn for tire cords which has plagued manufacturers in recent weeks, should be relieved by the emergency "freeze" of cotton yarn mill spindles on May 1, CPA rubber officials predicted.

The freeze will restore to essential production all spindles which were making the needed garment and industrial yarns on Dec. 31. It is accompanied by a price increase as a "production incentive" and a set-aside to prevent the yarn from being diverted into non-essential uses.

Some Build Inventories

The shortage of truck and bus tires already has eased off to such an extent that dealers in some sections are building up some inventory supplies. The same is true of tractor and other farm-vehicle tires in certain areas.

In the passenger tire field, the expected 25 per cent increase in demand during the summer probably will offset the ahead-of-schedule progress of the tire companies, CPA officials said.

Not until late in the year, they predicted, will dealers have in stock full supplies for motorists, and not until then will it be possible to lift the ruling against a spare tire on new automobiles.

THREAT TO SCHACHT, GESTAPO MAN BARED

By The Associated Press

NUERNBERG, April 24—Justice Robert H. Jackson told the international military tribunal today there's had been uttered "in this courtroom this morning" against Dr. Hjalmar Schacht, former reichsbank president, and a Gestapo officer who was about to testify.

The American prosecutor's assertion threw the courtroom into turmoil, just as the Gestapo officer, Hans Bernd Von Gisevius, attempted to testify.

The witness barely had started to mention a conversation he had overheard between Otto Stahmer, attorney for Hermann Goering, and Rudolf Dix, counsel for Schacht, when Stahmer leaped to his feet protesting.

He objected to testimony concerning a "private conversation," but Jackson intervened.

Stahmer then told the court he had discussed Gisevius's impending appearance at the trial with Goering last night and that Goering had told him he was intent on keeping out of the testimony any reference to the late Field Marshal Werner Von Blomberg's marriage.

"Goering said Schacht was expected to speak about this thing," Stahmer declared. "He said then he would drop any consideration for Schacht. That is what I told Dr. Dix. I did not even know Gisevius was present."

Dix then told the court that Stahmer came to him and said:

"Listen, Goering has the point of view that Gisevius can attack him as much as he pleases but if he attacks the dead Blomberg, then Goering will tell things about Schacht and several things against Schacht that will be dangerous."

Gisevius began lashing at Goering from the time he started testifying. He said he had not intended to mention Von Blomberg's marriage—an act which caused Hitler to remove the field marshal as minister of war in 1938—but had planned to speak of other matters involving Von Blomberg.

"I know why Goering doesn't want me to speak about this because it is the worst deed he has ever done," the Gestapo officer said. "Goering here is using a cloak of rivalry to try to silence me."

The court ruled that Gisevius should proceed with his story.

Compromise Hinted in Chinese Crisis

By The Associated Press

CHUNGKING, April 24—Generalissimo Chiang Kai-shek postponed today the convocation of the national assembly as the Communists had demanded, prompting widespread belief here that a compromise was near in the Manchurian civil war and other internal problems.

The generalissimo said the government would set a date later for the assembly, which had been scheduled to meet May 5 at Nanking to consider China's new constitution.

Doctors Try To Save Sailor Who Slew 9

By The Associated Press

SHANGHAI, April 24 — Navy investigators' hopes of getting Seaman William Smith's own story of why he went berserk suddenly aboard an LST and killed nine shipmates before severely injuring himself rested today on the skill of navy doctors.

Smith was reported last night as having a 50-50 chance to survive three self-inflicted knife wounds. The introspective, 19-year-old Asheville, N. C., youth and one of his victims, S2/c George E. Simpson, 18, Waterbury, Conn., were treated aboard the hospital ship Repose.

About 3 a. m. yesterday, Smith entered the sleeping quarters of 30 shipmates and opened fire with a carbine and a pistol.

Strikes Kill Possible Production Record

WASHINGTON, April 24 — Strikes have killed any chance for an all time record production of farm machinery this year, C. R. Heller, director of the equipment division of the civilian production administration said today.

Writing to Senator Young, (R-ND) Heller said CPA officials hoped 1946 production would be 50 per cent greater than the 1945 record output because demand has multiplied. Lack of machinery is cutting farm production, some farm leaders have asserted.

Heller said the "serious effects which have already occurred from irretrievable losses such as in production of steel due to recent work stoppages "cannot now be overcome."

Heller said production in January, 1946, was a high level, but dropped about 20 per cent in February.

GALION CLUB HITS FIRING OF COACH

Special to The Star

GALION, April 24—The second Galion service club to call upon the Galion Board of Education to clarify their reasons for not rehiring the athletic coach, Robert R. Sheffer, following his outstanding records in both football and basketball during the past two years, is the Galion Junior Chamber of Commerce.

At the meeting of the Jaycees, Monday night, the club passed the following resolution: "Be it resolved that the Junior Chamber of Commerce requests the Galion Board of Education to present publicly a detailed explanation of the reasons for their recent action concerning removal of Robert Sheffer from his coaching duties."

The Galion Rotary club at its meeting, Monday night, also passed a resolution regarding the situation.

J. C. Gay, a school board member announced his resignation on April 12 from the board because Coach Sheffer was demoted after Gay had to leave the board meeting, and also because the board had not given charges to substantiate its action in the matter.

One thing we do know in advance. There will have to be some vigorous horse-trading if the conference is to succeed. To use more diplomatic language there must be concessions.

War' Is Never Over for American Youth Who Boost Kenton's Toy Pistol Factory

By FRANK BERLIEN
Central Press Correspondent

KENTON, O.—The "shootin's" on all around the world except in the backyard, the neighborhood playground, the city street, or wherever red-blooded American youngsters congregate.

Undoubtedly the longest conflict on record, this boyhood battle is still blazing in its umpteenth year with no decisive victory yet in sight. The Cowboys, the Indians, the Cops or the Robbers. Only the Public have been exterminated.

Nations of the world are talking armament, overlooking a manufacturing field where guns and pistols are being turned out in record numbers, just since the end of the war.

Armament plants closed then, but the toy gun and pistol factories reopened. And next to the kids, nobody was happier about it than the townspeople of Kenton, O.

Back in Production

There, at the Kenton Hardware company, the famous Gene Autry six-gun pistol had its birth, and production of the toy is just being resumed this month. Paradoxically, when the country went to war in 1941, the demand for guns was great, but not toy guns. So the Kenton Hardware, key industry for the northwestern Ohio town, was forced to close while armament plants had a mushroom growth with all over the country. Now the business is expected to boom again.

JOE SOLOMON, pattern maker, shows Autry how he copied pistol.

Although the local factory had made toy cap pistols for many years, it was not until 1937 that the demand put the business on an international scope. That year the company officials pondered the question: "Why not a pistol modeled after the western six-shooter, instead of the seasonal cap pistol?"

Answering their own question, they proceeded with plans for production. W. R. Bixler, manager, together with his New York sales manager, L. A. Carll, began to look for a popular movie star for whom they could name the pistol. It didn't take long to decide that Gene Autry, most popular of all western stars, was the one.

Gene sent his own pearl-handled six-shooter to Kenton and Joe Solomon, veteran pattern-maker of the plant, copied it.

Optimistically, the company counted on selling at least 100,000 of the pistols, but they reckoned without young America. Orders flowed in, and from 1938 to 1942 more than four and three-quarter million of the toy guns were sold in junior and senior sizes. Not only were American boys "arming," but orders came in from England, Ireland, South America, and even far-away Australia.

Such a sensation was the black gunmetal gun, with plastic pearl handle that production jumped to nearly 10,000 a day.

Autry visited the Kenton plant soon after production began. Recently discharged from the Army, he soon will be "back in the saddle" again, riding across the silver screen in the country's movie houses.

And American youths will be charging across the backlots, "letting 'em have it," supreme and unchallenged in their make-believe world.

Interest of Night Crowd at Circus Centers on Burma

An estimated 2,000 persons witnessed the Mills Brothers' three-ring circus held yesterday at the Drake lot on Fairground street.

Although the crowd at the afternoon performance was small, the tent was filled for the evening show. One of the attractions was the performance of Burma, the elephant that broke loose from her keeper yesterday and wandered through gardens and across lawns in an unrehearsed act all her own. But at last night's show she submitted willingly to the wishes of her trainer.

The circus was showing in Delaware today and will move to Marysville tomorrow for a one-day performance. It came to Marion from Mansfield.

The local V. F. W., sponsors of the show, will share in the receipts, with funds going toward the purchase of a $12,000 building for club room purposes. The building is located at 130 Court street and will give the V. F. W. and Auxiliary space for club rooms, a meeting hall, kitchen, dining room and other facilities. The V. F. W.'s share of the receipts has not yet been determined.
